

TABLE OF CONTENTS

ARGUMENT

Dalia BÁTHORY: History of Science During the Cold War Under the Microscope 7

I. SCIENCE BEFORE, AFTER AND BEYOND THE IRON CURTAIN

William DEJONG LAMBERT: “The Difference Between No. 1 1928 and No. 1 1930 Is Great Indeed.” Theodosius Dobzhansky’s Self-Imposed Exile From Soviet Russia - the “Dr. Zhivago Period” 15

Jean-Claude DUPONT: L’histoire médicale et politique du pavlovisme en Russie et en France: Fernand Lamaze et le cas de l’accouchement sans douleur 41

Miroslaw SIKORA: From Promising Agent to Suspicious Francophile. Professor Stefan Węgrzyn and His Contacts with Professor Jean Charles Gille Through the Lens of the Polish (counter) Intelligence (1958-1976) 65

Luciana JINGA: Science and Politics During the Cold War – The Controversial Case of Sexology in Communist Romania 87

II. SCIENCE AS A TOOL OF SOFT POWER

Corina DOBOȘ: Swinging Statistics: Population Research and Political Construction in 20th Century Romania 111

Irina NASTASĂ-MATEI: Academic Migration and Cultural Diplomacy During the Cold War. Humboldt Fellowships for Romania in the Context of Eastern Europe. . . . 139

III. PHILOSOPHY FROM METAPHYSICS TO MATERIALISM

Cristian VASILE: The Institute of Philosophy in Communist Romania Under the Regime of Gheorghiu-Dej, 1949-65. 161

Daniela MACI: The Status of Philosophy During the Communist Regime in Romania . . . 187

IV. BOOK REVIEW

Ana TEODORESCU: Miruna Runcanu, Teatru în diorame. Discursul criticii teatrale în comunism. Fluctuantul dezgheț 1956-1964 [Theater in Dioramas. Discourse in Theatre Criticism During Communism. The Fluctuating Thaw, 1956-1964], Tracus Arte, 2019, 341 p.	209
NOTES ON CONTRIBUTORS	213